There Are Homes

to be had at pre-war prices if you will drop the subway habit. Within easy commuting distance, with frequent and comfortable train service, are homes, built a few years ago, that would cost nearly double to construct now. They are the real bargains today and call for decision and prompt action.
We have already done the "shopping" to find them; they are for you to act upon, they sell because they are worth more than their price. See me about them—in particular a wonderful bargain at Plainfield for $6,800 on easy terms; a brick house in a wonderful location for $14,000; a beautiful home at East Orange for $14,000, and one at Nyack on the Hudson for $7,000 that is stealing. Howard Goldsmith, 63 Park Row
